Acknowledgement of Risk: SafetyEd specializes in providing hands-on training in a variety of topics. Our basic philosophy is that continuous, active participation will promote and enhance long-term learning. By enrolling, you will be expected to be an active participant. This means at times you may be asked to perform (or be the recipient of) patient assessments and treatment, which includes physical contact with a co-participant. As part of this course, you will also be asked to move through uneven terrain and work in inclement and potentially cold weather. You should be physically able to kneel for long periods; you may be asked to lift or help carry patients; you will also be asked to participate in mock accident scenes, which will be conducted outdoors in any given weather. Because of the nature of the course activities and environment, there is a chance that you could be injured. SafetyEd cannot guarantee your safety or well being.

Participant Agreement: I acknowledge that there are certain risks associated with this active, hands-on course, and I understand the risk as it has been described. If I have any condition that could potentially affect my ability to participate, or if I ever feel that I am unable to complete a skill or activity without endangering my or someone else's well-being, or if I ever find myself in an uncomfortable or potentially dangerous situation, I agree to immediately notify my instructor.
