Strangulation: Response, Investigation, & Prosecution

Virtual Training Via Teams January 14 and 15, 2026

Non-fatal strangulation has been identified as a key indicator for risk of lethality in domestic violence cases. This advanced course offers an in-depth and multidisciplinary approach to these types of assaults. This course is designed for law enforcement, prosecution professionals, and forensic medical professionals.

The following individuals are eligible to apply*:

CDVSA funded victim service providers, Alaskan forensic medical providers, Department of Law prosecutors and paralegals, DPS Navigators, APSC certified municipal officers, state troopers, and VPSO.

*If you are a tribal advocate funded under OVW, please contact Martha Bravo (Martha.Bravo@aknwrc.org) at the Alaska Native Women's Resource Center (AKNWRC) to arrange for training on this topic.

The core objectives of this advanced two day course:

- ◆ Identify key factors in the lethality of strangulation;
- ◆ Describe the anatomy, physiology, and signs and symptoms of strangulation in surviving and non-surviving cases;
- ◆ Improve documentation of strangulation cases in the context of intimate partner violence, sexual assault, and child abuse;
- ◆ Discuss best-practices in trauma-informed advocacy, interviewing, prosecution, and/or patient/case management and;
- ◆ Develop local experts to use in trial.
