APSC exercises discretion by individually evaluating a reciprocal applicant's entire training history to determine if the above criteria have been met. For example; an officer with many years of experience and hours of in-service and advanced training is likely eligible for Alaska reciprocity despite their basic academy, years earlier, only being 450 hours in length. Additionally, prior police experience is recognized in Alaska toward Intermediate and Advanced officer certification. Interested applicants are urged to contact APSC if they have any questions.

To ultimately obtain Alaska Certification the reciprocal applicant must:

- Meet the minimum standards for a police officer under Alaska's statutes and regulations;
- Successfully complete the Alaska reciprocity academy or an equivalent;
- Successfully complete an approved field training program with an Alaskan agency;
- Successfully complete a 12-month, full time, probationary employment period as an officer with an APSC member agency.
